

For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly gratifying to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak
more in favour of a medicine than continuous of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further,
that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.
They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved
for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

nate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, at approaching consumptions.

fords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

dicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Consumptions the stomach and Lowness of spirits back and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & Genuine German Corn Plaster.

removing their root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.
So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals,
the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes
of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ring-
worms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

the eyes, whether the effect of natura
weakness or of accident.

Fan-Sash Making.

METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke street. The want of a Metal Fan-Sash Manufacture in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither etc., nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expense in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.
Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as in town.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND DAILY ADVERTISER.

PUBLISHED BY
SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL STREET.

Daily Gazette 97 Country Gazette 35.

TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1818.

FOR THE ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE.

To the most wise, most learned, and most accurate arithmeticians, who meet in the city house.

Dear Solomon,

I have a most wonderful case for you to solve. Not to be tedious, I must inform you that I some time ago hired a likely crew from the backwoods, by the name of "Harry Stiffpudd," to do some work for me; but as I did not know the quantity of work I had for him to do, we knew not what terms to fix on as to his pay. But, says Harry, I will go to work for you, and will let you know before I am done what I shall charge you; so I, thinking him a reasonable fellow, agreed to his proposition. Well, my dear wise acres, he went to work, and after a while he tells me that he finds it very expensive living, &c. &c. and that he must have two dollars a day during the winter—this I thought reasonable, and agreed to. But stop, says he, you must also allow me a sum not exceeding one dollar a day from the end of the winter till I begin to work again next winter. What, what—what's that, says I: I find I shall have no work for you to do next summer, and yet you have worded the contract in such an ambiguous manner that I cannot understand it. In short, dear heads of wisdom, although I could fill many sheets in describing this curious contract, I must break off, by requesting you to inform me "how much" I must pay the fellow; as I have no doubt he will insist on the very words of the above bargain, although he made it all himself, with some assistance from his friends, who, I believe, are all in a league against me. Yours,

UNCLE SAM,
Washington, March 19.

* See compensation law.

Mr. Editor,

The character of Socrates having lately become a subject of remark in your paper, induced me to turn to the first number of THE ACADEMICIAN, (a new periodical work lately established in N. York) where I found the following neat compliment paid to his memory.

Although the extract is not intended to display the religious opinions of Socrates, in which light your correspondents have noticed him, yet I have thought that the mere fact of its relating, in any manner, to so great a man, will render it acceptable to your readers.

THE EXTRACT.

"Socrates, the most celebrated moral philosopher of antiquity, is to be reckoned in the catalogue of those whose office it has been to form the minds of youth to every thing great, noble and good. Under his divine instructions, some of the most illustrious philosophers and generals were educated. His exemplary virtue was a stimulus to those intrusted to his care, to model their lives after their great master, who has been the theme of panegyric of all succeeding ages. But Socrates shone conspicuously not only as a teacher of philosophy, but also as a soldier. Deserting the student's life, he assumed the soldier's, and fought in defence of his country with boldness and intrepidity. Under men like Socrates, what might we not expect?—Great and powerful were his examples and instruction, and the consequences were adequate to their cause. Some of those whose writings we admire, whose military achievements we applaud, and whose writings and precedent encourage in our youth a love of freedom and their country—a detestation of tyranny and oppression—were reared by that great man. Of an independent spirit, he spoke freely upon all subjects; and such was the power of his reason and the elegance of his expression, that they who listened with attention were convinced, and the prodigal tempted to embrace virtue. He was present every where: in the groves of the Academy, the Lyceum, and on the banks of the Illyssus, he poured forth his divine strains, which have been recorded by two of his most celebrated pupils, Xenophon and Plato. Few indeed have left behind a name so revered as his, and few indeed have been so fortunate in the propagation of morality and philosophy, by precept and example."

The young man who would rise above an ordinary level in fame or virtue, must restrain the ungoverned impulses which either render him weak or wicked, miserable or contemptible.

ALEXANDRIA TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1818.

THE LATE GALE.

Which visited this town on Saturday, was more severe and destructive than has been remembered for many years. The wind did not blow violently until about 3 P. M. when it commenced from the northeast, and continued without intermission until 9. We did not hear of any damage being done until 5 o'clock, when the gale was at its greatest height, it blowing a perfect hurricane. The violence of the waves rendered it impracticable in many instances to afford assistance, and several small river craft were sunk at the wharves. Owing to the skill of their commanders and the timely exertions of their crews, the ships in the harbor escaped with little or no serious injury. It is impossible to form a correct estimate of the loss sustained; but we are warranted in saying that it will exceed 10,000 dollars. Seafaring gentlemen are of opinion that great injury has been done on the coast, and doubt not but that many vessels bound for this port, which were outside the capes during the gale, must have suffered severely.

Since writing the foregoing, we have been informed by the Secretary of the Exchange Coffee-House with the following enumeration of vessels injured at the wharves, viz.:

Schr. Handy of Georgetown, D. C. lost her bowsprit, and otherwise damaged.
Sloop Erie of ditto, lost her mast, and very much damaged in other respects.
Schr. Mary-Ann of Alexandria, lost her mainmast, and sunk at the wharf.
Schr. Lady's Delight of ditto, stern stove in, and bilged.
Schr. Betsy of ditto, totally destroyed, and her quarter deck, &c. washed up into Union Street.
Sloop Speedwell of ditto, sunk to the water's edge, with loss of mast and bowsprit.
Sloop Experiment of ditto, stern stove in, and damaged in her quarters and bends.
Sloop Mulberry of ditto, damaged in her stern and quarters.
Sloop Eliza-Ann of East River, her bowsprit sprung, and quarters and bends damaged.

Schr. Welcome-Return of Harwich, bowsprit sprung, and otherwise damaged.
Schr. Lancaster of Yeocomico, stern stove in, and quarters, &c. damaged.
Schr. Betsy of Eastern Shore, with loss of mainmast and other damage, drifted from Entwisle's wharf and grounded near Hunter's ship yard.

The county wharf at Fish town, received considerable damage. At this spot, a house was entirely demolished; eight persons were in the house at the time, and only one of them injured, and that slightly.

A number of other wharves, private property, were considerably injured.

The gale was from N. E. and its greatest violence was between 5 and 6 P. M. at which time the before mentioned damage was done.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Monday, March 23, 1818.

The house of Representatives assembled on Saturday, and dispatched a good deal of that minor kind of business which, though of considerable importance to these concerned, has little in it to interest and engage the attention of readers generally. The only thing that passed worthy of particular notice was a resolution introduced by Mr. Taylor that a committee should be appointed to enquire into the expediency of providing by law for an earlier commencement of the next session of congress than the stated period, with leave to report by bill or otherwise.

A bill passed to extend the privilege of franking to the vaccine agents of states and territories. Every expedient practicable ought to be resorted to to stimulate the people to the earliest use possible of vaccination.

The suggestion I let fall some days ago respecting Mr. Forsyth's intimation about war with Spain was unfounded, as appears from a paragraph in this morning's National Intelligencer. I am sorry I dropped it; but it is certainly some apology for it, that I was not the only person, by many, who regarded it in the light I did. The authority of the National Intelligencer is too strong to be resisted on a point of that kind, and I have no doubt that it is supported by that of Mr. Forsyth himself. Yet I should think my countryman, and it was only as a surmise I gave it, in some measure warranted by what passed—I mean by Mr. Forsyth's words, if I heard them aright, and by Mr. Clay's significant look as a comment on them. The conduct of the executive in the case of Spain is beyond all praise; and is, in our minds, the best imaginable guaranty for a sequel that will humble the weak, refractory bigot of the embroidered petticoat before this insulted country. Mr. Monroe seems to have caught a firm hold of Washington's sage maxim—"In every contest place your enemy in the wrong." In all probability it was this confidence in the wisdom and spirit of the executive which rendered me more prompt than was necessary to give the construction I did to Mr. Forsyth's expressions.

After all, I do not despair of my surmise turning out to have been substantially reasonable in the end.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer, dated Milledgeville, March 11.

Gentlemen—A report has this morning reached us, which we fear may be true, on this point.

General Cines, with a few others, set off some time last month from Fort Early, to descend the river (Flint) to Fort Scott.

The report is, that the boat was staved on the 25th ult; Major Wright, (aid to Gen. Gaines and son of Gov. Wright) with others said to be drowned.

Gen. Cines was seen to reach the shore (by a man who gained the opposite side, and brings the report) but has not since been heard of, and is thought to have fallen into the hands of the hostile Indians.

Such is the rumor—we pray God it may not be true, but fear it is so.

New York, March 21.

LATEST FROM FRANCE.

SPANISH PATRIOTS.

[Presented to Congress on the 11th inst.] To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled.

The memorial of VICEN E. PAZOS, of Peru, Deputed Agent of the authorities acting in the name of the Republics of Venezuela, New Grenada, & Mexico, Respectfully represents.

That several duly constituted authorities of the independent governments of South America, having met in this free, this enlightened, friendly and neutral country; and being convinced that nothing could tend more to the advancement of the great cause, in which all the friends of freedom, from the Bay of San Francisco to Cape Horn, are deeply engaged, than the conquest of Florida, which would cut off the medium of intercourse between the Spanish Islands and the United States, and thus paralyze the operations of the government of Spain, in the important contiguous Islands, hastening thereby the fulfilment of the ardent desires of these islanders for emancipation from the most cruel oppression; these constituted authorities determined upon the attack of Amelia Island as the most direct mode of obtaining possession of the contemplated object.

Their views were privately made known to many individuals in the United States, who had emigrated to this country in consequence of the bloody scenes of Carthagen and other places of South America; and to many of the disbanded soldiers of the British and other nations, whose profession was that of arms. They were invited to repair to Amelia Island, many of them wishing an asylum, and others desirous of assisting in the Patriot cause, under promises of satisfaction, proportioned to their grades and merits, but cautiously avoiding whatever might be construed as a violation of the sovereignty of this highly respected republic, and studiously careful to guard against whatever could, in the most remote degree, be considered as infracting the laws of nations. They met at the place of rendezvous, they attacked, they took, they kept possession of the Island of Amelia, with only the van guard.—They expected the arrival of those patriots and foreigners who had voluntarily offered to join them; but to the surprise, to the heart-rending regret of all the friends of this great revolution, the volunteers were stopped in their progress from the U. States, and many of them were thrown into prison! These measures, totally unexpected, changed at once the whole appearance of our views. Instead of being enabled to take possession of Florida (intended finally for the United States) the chiefs of the expedition were subjected to suspicion, many of the men deserted, and but a few were left to sustain the shock of arms, which was daily threatened by the Spanish troops; they remained, however, unappalled; they repelled a formidable attack; but being disappointed before mentioned, incapable of active operations, the abandonment of the place was contemplated at the time of Gen. Arty's arrival, whose reinforcements enabled the Patriots not only to remain masters of the island, waiting for an augmentation of forces for exterior operations, but they were enabled to fit out several vessels to annoy the Spanish trade.

The great importance and consequence of the capture of Amelia Island, as a key to Florida and to the channel of the Bahamas, will be more easily comprehended by a perusal of those intercepted despatches which accompany this memorial from the minister of the treasury of the island of Cuba to the bloody Mr. Fill, whose supplies were furnished chiefly from that island; and the island derived those supplies from the U. States, through the Florida. The money requisite for the prosecution of the war against the independents, was obtained by loan from the inhabitants of Cuba, but these, judging correctly that if the Patriots could take and hold Amelia Island, they would proceed to possess themselves of the rest of the Florida, and finally of Cuba, ready for revolt, and that in the event of a revolution of these, the money lent their government would be lost, refused those advances on the faith of government that they had been accustomed to make.

Thus may the government of the U. States now see the importance of these primary movements of the Patriots, which were attributed to other causes of a confined, a private, and even a sinister nature, by writers in the public papers of this country, who imputed motives of the most diabolical kind to the chiefs of this expedition.—They loaded them with every insulting epithet, and charged the whole with the irregularities that were committed by unprincipled individuals who had assumed the Patriot flag to cover their depredations; allus involving in one common disgrace, those who were duly commissioned, and who had acted in conformity to acknowledged laws, with those who had been guilty of this piratical assumption! The Patriots took many Spanish vessels engaged in the slave trade, and carried them into Ferdinandina. It would be unworthy the dignity of this memorial, to descend to the suspicion that the persons so violent in these charges, were directly engaged in this infernal trade; but the opposition appears to have augmented against the Patriots, in proportion to the injury done thereto.

These captured slave-ships were taken, like other vessels, because declaredly belonging to the enemy; but there is no instance of the captors having violated the laws of this country, in attempting the introduction of the captured slaves into the U. States; and if any individual had even attempted so irregular a proceeding, he would have been subject to the laws; but his disgrace would surely not be imputed to those who disclaim any such act.

The documents, now in the hands of the executive of this government, give the most ample testimony of the regular attention paid to the laws of the United States by the Patriots; and your memorialist was in hopes, that these favorable representations would have produced a very different result to the one experienced.

Even your venerable and respected philosopher, Franklin, clothed with ministerial dignity, was called a hoary-headed Traitor!

The situation of those whom your memorialist has the honor to represent, calls for the reminiscence of these circumstances, that your honorable house may judge, by the feelings of those days, of the impressions which your acts are calculated to stamp upon the minds of the Patriots, which are peculiarly alive to every sentiment emanating from so high and so esteemed a source.

The Patriots have not only been deprived of the captured territory, but of all the warlike stores found thereon—they have also remained uncompensated for all their expenditures in the erection of barracks and other necessary buildings—they have not only been deprived of the captured vessels, but of their cargoes.

The validity of these prizes, and of the property taken, has been, by request of the Spanish agents, subjected to the courts of Admiralty of the U. States for adjudication, though these courts can have no competent jurisdiction over property taken by the citizens of another power, from another people, on the high seas.—And yet the court of Admiralty of Savannah has lately decided against the schooner Tantativa's being a good prize to the Brutus Privateer, commissioned by the Mexican government; also against a barge prize to the General San Martin, under Buenos Ayres colors, seized on the coast. The cargo, of a brig, prize to the Mexican Congress, wrecked on the coast of North Carolina, has been sold by the collector, and the money deposited in his office.

The unfavorable impression made upon the government of this country, against the persons employed in this enterprise appeared to be corroborated by facts appearing solely to those who, totally disconnected with the Patriots, had seen, but authority, assumed their flag; and partly under the plea that this was a private war, and especially under the plea of the Florida's having been pledged to the government, the officers thereof, directed to take possession of Amelia Island, which they did in a hostile manner, but which the Patriots refused to defend, under the conviction that a government professing friendly sentiments to those who were following its own glorious example, would upon due consideration of the subject, under proper representations, redress any grievances to which that exertion of power might have subjected their friends, the Patriots, and under such consoling expectations your memorialist had the honor of addressing the Chief Magistrate of this respected republic. After waiting, however, for a month (though every day's delay is highly injurious to the great cause in which we are engaged) instead of receiving such satisfaction as the Patriots had vainly anticipated, your memorialist has this day received a letter from the honorable John Quincy Adams, (Secretary of State of the United States) excluding all hope of that reparation of the injuries sustained, that was expected from a great and magnanimous people, whose glorious example had fired the bosoms of their brethren of the South; and nothing remains now, in the fulfilment of the duties of your memorialist to the patriots, whom he represents, but to submit to the august assemblies whom he has the honor now to address, those evidences of injuries so grievous to the cause of liberty and to the progress of the revolution, which involves the happiness of so many millions.

In this exposition of the grievances and sufferings already alluded to, your memorialist begs leave to call the attention of your honorable Houses to the following.

It must be advanced (and your memorialist hopes it will be admitted) that the capture of Florida would hasten the great events of the revolution; and that, this being accomplished, it was the avowed intention of the Patriots to cede that country to the United States, under such circumstances as might be mutually beneficial.

It must also be advanced, that they knew not of any existing engagement that had been so concluded between this country and Spain, as to subject the attack in any manner, to the suspicion of an implication of hostility to the pre-arrangements or ultimate views of his republic: For the patriots could not suppose a nation as powerful as the United States, would permit the king of Spain to keep possession of a country, virtually theirs, as a compensation for the spoils committed on their trade, some time ago; and especially as the governor of Florida is daily disposing of the lands, leaving nothing, finally, but the sovereignty and the land banks; and more especially, as the law of Congress on that subject was passed in the year 1811, which by the constitution became effectually null in two years—added to which, a nation, of such political forecast as the United States, knowing that the patriots of the south, long declared all the American continental possessions of Spain in a state of revolution, could not be expected to leave undecided a question of so much moment as the possession of Florida, if actually theirs, at a time when it was subject to an attack from without, or a revolution from within—and under a conviction that if left to an external attack, it would involve the United States in a contest with the captors, (for Spain had not at almost defenceless), or virtually, decaying a force to be idly pent, which might have been efficiently engaged elsewhere, in the great cause.

Under all these circumstances, your memorialist finds it difficult to abstract his mind from a dilemma, which presents itself, and which he submits with great deference.

Either the United States did possess Florida, or they did not. If they did why not occupy the same and display the American flag? Which would have prevented the patriots from attempting the conquest of a country that had consummated its wishes. If they did not possess Florida, why have they, et cetera, taken from the patriots a part thereof, which they had fairly, and by force of arms, conquered and kept against every attack from their only declared enemy?

It is in vain to urge that the Patriots were considered as Pirates—because it is not the usage of nations to accept from pirates terms of capitulation; and your memorialist begs leave to solicit your honorable Houses to ponder well upon the sensibility of this action, when the Danes delivered up to the English minister the vessels captured from that nation by Com. Paul Jones, who because he had been an English subject, was designated and threatened by them as a pirate—for the Danes had not then acknowledged your independence. This subject was thought worthy, at a subsequent time, of a formal representation through your minister, Mr. Jefferson, then at the court of Versailles; and the injury sustained then, was, till within a short period, made a plea against the restoration of even private property, belonging to the subjects of that crown, and in having, was the impression of that injury, that it has been thought worthy of remembrance, until this day.

* The documents are in the hands of the executive.

The Patriots have not only been precluded from recovering debts to a large amount due, for the legal sales in the United States of various goods, but their liberties are endangered by the threats of creditors to whom comparatively small debts are due; and at the time that these threats are made the sufferers of all these injuries are ordered peremptorily, by the officers of the United States, to quit a territory that has never belonged to this government, who seem, thereby, to have exposed the cause of our enemies, and to have entered into league against us.—All these things, too, are done when the government of this country are acquainted with the reports of the junction of the Russian and Spanish fleets, whose destination is declared to be against the Patriots; and thus shall we be subjected, while waiting for the restoration of our property, to the risk of having our vessel blockaded in port, thereby hazarding their loss with the prize goods, and thus giving advantages to an enemy insatiable in blood, and to whom reconciliation is impossible; an enemy who may become formidable by such unexpected reinforcements, but whom the Patriots would, otherwise, never hesitate to meet boldly.

In repeating these manifold grievances to your honorable houses, your memorialist looks with confidence for the dignified and sincere support of the great republican cause, in which those whom he represents are so deeply engaged; and he repeats in the bosom of your august assemblies those representations, depending on such a redress of grievances as shall comport with the honor, dignity and justice of the government of the United States.
